—Down in Texas the other day Sam Jones asked the men in his congregation who could have thrown a stone at the accused woman that Christ told to go and sin no more, to stand up. After awhile 14 arose on their pastern joints and while they yet stood, he said: "Now I want every man and woman in this vast audience to get down on their knees and help me pray for 14 of the biggest liars in the State of Texas."

—The brass baggage-check is fast disappearing. At a meeting of the general baggage agents held in St. Louis last week, a resolution that card checks were preferable was adopted.

A Million Friends.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and not less than one million have found just such a friend in Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. If you have never used this great Cough Medicine, one trial will convince you that it has wonderful curative powers in all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs. Each bottle is guaranteed to do all that is claimed or money will be refunded. Trial bottles free at A. R. Penny's drug store. Large bottles 50c and $1.

I have two little grand children who are teething this hot summer weather and are troubled with bowel complaint. I give them Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and it acts like a charm. I earnestly recommend it for children with bowel troubles. I was myself taken with a severe attack of bloody flux, with cramps and pains in my stomach, one-third of a bottle of this remedy cured me. Within 24 hours I was out and doing my house work. Mrs. W. L. Duncan, Box 400, Hickman, Mo., Tenn. For sale by Dr. S. G. Hocker, Druggist, Stanford.

LIBERTY, CASEY COUNTY.

Flinchum Discharged for the Killing of Watkins.

—Mr. Roy S. Beasley requested us to state that there would be a fair held at Liberty this year, but as he is absent at this time, and we understand the affair has not been fully organized yet, we can not give full particulars until we have further information.

—Mr. Noah Snow, living near Neely's Gap, called on us the other day requesting us to correct a statement made in our correspondence of June 8th in regard to the reported assault on Mr. Bleeden, the peddler, on the Rolling Fork the Saturday previous. He states that he and his uncle John Read, in company with S. T. Woodson, were riding down the Bradfordville pike at the time stated when they overtook the peddler, Bleeden; that Woodson stopped and wanted to buy a suit of clothes from the peddler, while he and his uncle, John Read, passed on to their destination below; that they had nothing to do with the mistreatment of Mr. Bleeden, and that they were not even in hearing, when the pistol shot was fired. He also states that no writ was issued against him and his uncle but they were only summoned as witnesses in the case. We make this correction in exonerating Mr. Snow and his relative from blame with the greatest of pleasure, as we believe his version of the affair, it being as far as we have inquired corroborated by some of his neighbors before Mr. Snow called upon us. We always when we have done parties injustice by wrongly informed reports take more pleasure in correcting them than in writing unpleasant things. We did not get the account directly from Bleeden but got it the best we could second handed. It is possible that Mr. E's head was much disturbed and somewhat mixed and failed to give a clear statement of everything. It is also stated that Bleeden's hat was not on his head when the pistol bullet was put through it, but was picked up off the ground and held in Woodson's hand when he shot through it.

—Great interest was taken in the examining trial of Frank Flinchum before Judge Myers Friday for the killing of Al Watkins.

Wolford Sword was the first witness sworn for the State. He stated that Al Watkins passed his house between 5 and 6 o'clock last Tuesday morning. Having heard that Watkins was going to kill Flinchum, he quit his work and kept in sight of him. Saw Watkins stop before Flinchum's house, was 200 yards away at the time. It was some little bit before he saw the defendant appear at his door, and also saw his gun flash, and Watkins all from his horse. Two shots were fired. As he approached the fallen body John Frederick was the only one there before him. Saw Frederick stoop down and pick up something and put in his right pocket. Frederick said, "You need not search him, he has no weapons." He felt something hard under his clothes on his breast.

John Frederick testified that he was Watkins' brother-in-law. Lived 200 yards from Flinchum's. Bettie West, standing in his door, told him that the deceased had ridden up to Flinchum's door. At the shot, she jumped back exclaiming, "Lord a mercy!" He went immediately to Watkins and picked up his keys, rule, and penknife lying on the ground. Melvin Frederick, another brother-in-law, testified that he was sent the night before by Watkins to Flinchum's house as Watkins wanted to see him. Flinchum refused to go for the reason that he learned that Watkins had made threats against him. He told Flinchum that he did not blame him for not going, if Watkins had threatened him. When he returned and told Watkins that Flinchum had learned that he had made threats against him, he said it was a lie. Was at Watkins' the next morning when he left. He gave to the witness his pistol and coat and remarked, "May be Frank will not be afraid of me."

Betty West, who was at John Frederick's, stated that she was standing in the door and saw Watkins ride up facing Flinchum's house, and told John Frederick, who replied that Al had come to kill Mr. Flinchum. Watkins had his right hand by his side, could see Watkins, but could not see Flinchum. Two shots were fired.

The defendant testified. "I am 38 years old, have a wife and 8 children, have known Watkins five years. I saw Wm. Peairs at Kings Mountain on Saturday, and he told me that Watkins had shot him, and for me to watch him, for he had made threats against me; that Watkins had said three or four more men had to die. John Estes on Sunday told me the same. When Frederick came after me and told me that Watkins wanted to see me, I replied that I was afraid to risk him and would not go. He said that if he was me he would not go. After Frederick left, I sent and got a gun for self defense. I was in bed Tuesday morning when my little girl came in and told me that Watkins wanted to see me. I got up and told him I did not want to see him, that I was afraid of him. I knew he had a reputation as a dangerous man. His brother-in-law told me that if Peairs died that it would be the fourth man that he had killed."

Several witnesses testified about Watkins making threats against three or four men, in which Flinchum was included, either by implication or name. It appeared from some of the evidence that there was a letter in Watkins' possession, said to have been written by Flinchum, connecting him with Watkins' domestic troubles, which upon investigation the deceased had decided to be in Flinchum's handwriting, would have sealed his doom. Several witnesses were introduced in regard to Watkins' reputation, the burden of which was that he was a remarkably clever man to his friends or those who did not cross him, but very dangerous when aroused from any real or imaginary bad treatment. While a number of witnesses testified on each side, many were not examined. After conclusion of the evidence, Boyle Stone made the opening speech for the defense clearly defining the law and reviewing the evidence. W. A. Morrow followed in behalf of the prosecution, commenting on the law in the case and citing decisions of the court of appeals applicable. He then dwelt on the evidence, giving some scorching criticisms on part of it. Geo. E. Stone followed with a strong plea for the right of self defense, stated the law and elaborated one of the cases cited by Mr. Morrow, and concluded by making strong points on Watkins' reputation as a dangerous man. County Attorney Godbey closed with a short but neat speech urging the necessity of enforcing the laws. The judge after a brief summary of the proof, decided that there was not sufficient evidence to hold the defendant and he was acquitted.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—Bunki Matsuki, a Japanese, and Miss Meacon, of Salem, Mass., were married last week.

—Mr. Morgan Chinn, second son of Col. Jack Chinn, was wedded to Miss Annie Cardwell, daughter of ex-Mayor Cardwell, of Harrodsburg, Thursday.

—Grant Baum, of Wooster, O., shot and instantly killed Millie Zimmerman, his sweetheart. Baum claims that the killing was accidental, but others say it was not.

—George B. Maxey, aged 20, and Miss Martha H. Snow, just sweet 16, both of the South Fork section, obtained license Saturday and will be married at McKinney to-morrow.

—Miss David Chenault, one of the belles of the Bluegrass, was married to Col. J. C. Batchelor, secretary of State, of North Carolina, at Lexington. Her gown was white moire, trimmed with seed pearls and duchess lace.

—Rev. R. W. Bellamy, a Methodist preacher in Tennessee, married Miss Jennie Allen, of Columbus, Ga., who answered his advertisement for a wife and came to his home to be legally joined. They had never seen each other before the morning of the nuptials.

—Mr. Aitchison Alexander Bowmar of the Versailles Sun, and Miss Mary Chenault were married Thursday at the suburban home of Dr. R. C. Chenault, at Glenview, Jefferson county. In following his brother Dan's example he has done the proper thing and we heartily congratulate him.

—The latest superstition is that if a girl takes the small bow which fastens the lining of a man's hat, and wears it inside her shoe, she will have a proposal from the youth within a month. The success of the scheme may be open to question, but it is proving very destructive to hats.

—Nellie Grant Sartoris, daughter of Gen. U. S. Grant, whose unhappy marriage to an Englishman gave her and her friends so much trouble, is to try the marital lottery again, this time with Adjutant General Douglas, of Maryland, who is an ex-Confederate soldier. It is hoped that she will find in this marriage the happiness for which she sighed in vain in her last. She now has a daughter 17-years-old.

—Next Monday will be county court day.

—Messrs. Charley Norris and Clay Hamilton have opened a line of furniture in the room next to the post-office.

—The coons had full sway Saturday. They had a big parade in the forenoon and picnic and game of ball after dinner. The Stanford coons beat the Lancasters about three or four scores.

—Miss Eunah Davis, of Nicholasville, is the guest of Miss Carrie West. Mr. and Mrs. J. T. McRoberts are visiting Mr. R. E. McRoberts. Mr. Sam Harris, of Louisville, is visiting his parents on Stanford street.

—E. A. Pascoe, who has been running the Miller Hotel and restaurant, made an assignment to R. H. Tomlinson for the benefit of his creditors. Assets $2,400; liabilities about $2,400. An invoice of the stock has been taken and the business will be continued until the stock has been closed out.

—The court of appeals has overruled the motion for a new hearing in the contested election case of Broadus against Mason, and Mason will hold the position of clerk of the circuit court for the full term. "Keg" is a gentleman, a good clerk, kind and attentive to lawyers and litigants and popular with the people generally. He belongs to one of the best families in the county and "has just cause to be proud of his ancestry."

—Judge Hemphill and family and Mrs. Tuttle spent Sunday in Crab Orchard. Rev. C. M. Reid leaves for his western home this week. Miss Owsley, of Burkesville, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Ellen G. Owsley. Rev. R. R. West, Washington City, is here on a visit to his parents. Misses Lydia and May Frank are visiting Miss Margaret Mason. Miss Mertie Wilds has returned from a visit to Stanford. Miss Allie Waller, of Kirksville, is the guest of Mrs. Clifton Anderson.

PARSON JIM.—From the class of 1884, there graduated a fellow known as "Parson" Jim Saunders, a title which was probably given him because he roomed with Old Crenshaw, himself a fit subject for the operation of the spirit under any all circumstances. It is impossible for Jim to have been as wicked as "Cren," and so they called the former "Parson" just for the sake of contrast. When those two boys left college they left behind them here many warm friends who have watched with interest their careers in life. "Cren" is somewhere in Virginia, not a 100 miles from where Tate Irvine has won a seat in the Legislature of the mother State, while "Parson Jim" was climbing up the ladder of fame with equal progress, and sat in the late Legislature of his native State—Kentucky—one of its brightest and most useful members. The choice of an orator to address the alumni of the University luckily fell upon Mr. Saunders this year and it was the pleasure of those old friends of other days to gather in the University Chapel on Monday night and listen to one of the very best addresses that has ever been delivered there upon a similar occasion. It was enough the style of the true college orator toned down by contact with the generality of audiences met with in public life to give constant interest to the discourse. Not only that but his excellent subject matter and free delivery compelled the admiration of the audience and held its undivided attention during the entire discourse.—Richmond Register.

Another lynching occurred this week, making 53 this year. It is true, as some urge, that lynching does not stop crime, but, but we have noticed that the same fiend does not have to be lynched more than once.—A New Jersey telephone girl died from eating two quarts of cherries and a quart of peanuts. Somebody should have given her a few pints on eating and posted the gallon her danger.—From Charley Meacham's "Copywrited" column in Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

ASHLAND, Wis.—The famous retreat in northern Wisconsin located on the Wisconsin Central Lines at the head of the Chequamegon Bay is a most desirable spot for one to spend a summer outing, surrounded as it is by the beautiful Apostle Islands. Little need be said of its scenic beauty and health giving qualities. This place should not be overlooked by those figuring on a resort for their next summer's vacation. The tourist will find excellent fishing and boating at this point, and good hotel accommodations at very reasonable rates. For further particulars, maps, time tables, and guide books apply to Jas. C. Pond, Genl. Pass. Agt., Milwaukee, Wis.

"Many of the citizens of Painesville, Ind., are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house," says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. This remedy has proven of so much value for colds, croup and whooping cough in children, that few mothers who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale by Dr. S. G. Hocker, Druggist, Stanford.

Four Big Successes.

Having the needed merit to make good all the advertising claimed for them, the following four remedies have reached a phenomenal sale. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world, and Dr. King's New Life Pills, which are a perfect pill. All these remedies are guaranteed to do just what is claimed for them and the dealer whose name is attached herewith will be glad to tell you more of them. Sold at A. R. Penny's Drug Store.

THE Lexington Leader claims to have discovered indisputable evidence to settle the long mooted question as to Col. Craddock's age, which it gives at 69. We should have guessed 30 years more, tho' are willing to take the Leader's word as true as to age, but when it adds that the colonel takes a cold bath every morning before breakfast, we become a doubting Thomas of an unusually dubious order. It is the impression, and in it we fully concur, that it was the colonel who made the remark in all seriousness that he always took a bath once a year whether he needed it or not.

Not many fathers are able to offer, their sons $400,000 to abstain from intoxicating liquors for five years, and there are almost as few sons who would not sell their birthright for a drink, after they have acquired the baleful habit. George Crocker, a California millionaire, provided in his will that his son should be given $400,000 for each five years that he let liquor alone, and last week he stepped up and claimed the first payment, with satisfactory proof that he was entitled to it, got the money and started on the second round for $400,000 more.

MISS PAULINE MARKHAM, the actress is suing a firm in Louisville for $10,000 damage sustained by reason of a fall into an excavation in a street, by which she broke one of her beautiful limbs, and was laid up for a long time. Miss Markham is said to possess one of the most beautiful pairs in the country and if they shall be introduced as an exhibit in the case, the jury will find in full for her without leaving the box. That is if it is a representative Kentucky jury with the proper appreciation of the beautiful.

THE agony is over and Thomas K. Phelps, master commissioner of the Mercer circuit court, will be postmaster at Harrodsburg. There were eight applicants, including one ex-county man, J. R. Brooks, whom he hoped would get it, but Mr. Phelps was the best indorsed of all having 11 of the county committee, all the county officers but one and 280 patrons of the office on his list. Miss Smedley's term expired some time ago, but she has continued to gnaw the bone, while the applicants fought over it.

THE Financial Chronicle, of New York, in its issue of June 23, gets after the railroad commission of this State for what it terms its ill-advised advocacy of a reduction of rates, especially on coal, and calls upon the people to express themselves emphatically against the narrow minded policy of trifling with railroad interests, particularly at this inopportune time, when great harm must result to the State.

THE London Echo says it is possible for a republican to beat Gov. McCreary in this district, which only gave Cleveland 1,809 majority in 1892. We are told that with God all things are possible, but we do not believe that like St. Lovin-good, the Echo man is a natural born darn fool enough to believe that the election of a republican in the 8th district is at all probable.

ANOTHER Kentucky editor will hereafter edit postal cards instead of a newspaper. J. Fletcher Marcum, who ran the Catlettsburg Democrat, while his father, Hon. T. D. Marcum, was holding the Indiana down in the far West, has been appointed postmaster at Kilgore, where he recently found a wife.

THE Louisville Times gets John Miller mixed up with his brother, Will, which is quite unfortunate. John is a pretty decent sort of a fellow. We have been trying to send Will to that other institution at Frankfort for life, since he served his sentence in the constitutional convention there.

THE Courier-Journal prints an alleged picture of itself, in which it is represented as a young and beautiful woman in a robe de nuit. We have always heard her referred to as the "old lady on the corner," and we had an impression that her accustomed attire was a Mother Hubbard.

THE republicans of Tennessee have joined forces with the populists and prohibitionists and hope to elect the populist nominations for supreme judges. They are doubtless reckoning without their hosts, however, for Tennessee democrats, like the Kentucky article, are invincible.

MISS MADALINE POLLARD is taking a cruise for health and pleasure on the lakes, but she is not doing it on Willie Breckinridge's money. He hadn't paid her that $15,000 the court said he owed her, up to the hour that we went to press.

ONE of the best known ladies of Cincinnati has joined the silent majority and there is great sorrow among the children, who were very fond of her. Mrs. Pat Rooney, whose husband departed this life a few months ago, has joined him in the great beyond. She was of unusual intelligence and during her levies at the Zoological Garden, she was always the centre of admiration and attraction. Mrs. Rooney was a monkey and not a very pretty one at that, but she compared favorably in looks with the majority of home ladies who promenade Fourth street.

At Kingman, Kas., an editor, who opposed woman's suffrage in the populist convention, was met at the depot on his return home, taken from the side of his wife, clothed in a Mother Hubbard and a sun bonnet, and marched through the streets before a brass band. It was done by the friends of the women screechers and at their instance. Kansas is a mighty good State—to emigrate from. With such women on deck, the Plutonian regions would be preferable.

THE present Congress doesn't deserve much praise taking the Senate and the House together, but the little it is entitled to is cheerfully given. It has flooded the statute books with fewer laws than usual, the number to date being 85 public and 18 private laws. Let the Senate give us the Wilson bill pure and simple and the fame of the body may yet go ringing down the corridors of time, instead of its infamy.

HON. WALTER EVANS will be selected to-night to lead the forlorn republican hope in the Louisville district, the primaries having endorsed him for Congress by a vote three times as great as his two competitors combined. He is a pretty good man, but he is as cold as an iceberg, and freezes rather than warms the cockles of the hearts of the voters. The office of Congressman will have to become appointive before he will ever serve a term.

THE Courier Journal copies from the Interior Journal, and credits to it, a paragraph on Messrs. Craddock and Hopper, which this paper printed from the Louisville Times, unintentionally without credit. We refer to the matter for several reasons, chiefly, however, to give the devil, who edits one of the best papers, his due, and to disown any attempt to steal his thunder, as loud as it is and as good as it is.

In an article on woman suffrage, Harpers Weekly after a liberal examination of the question concludes that in the democratization of our institutions by enlargements of the suffrage we have gone fully as far as the safety of the republic will warrant, and that it is much more advisable to sift the body of voters by educational requirements and the like, than to expand it by indiscriminating additions.

AN unseemly contest is going on at Asheville, N. C., between the widow of Senator Vance and his son. The widow is a Catholic and does not wish the body to be buried in the family lot with his first wife, who was a protestant. So it has been buried and removed three times. The son says it shall rest in the place where the father designated if he has to appeal to the law.

Lincoln County Court Held June 11, 1894. Hon. W. E. Varmon, Judge, Presiding.

A copy of the judgment of the Lincoln Circuit Court in the case of W. B. Penny and others Plaintiff, against W. E. Varmon, Judge of the Lincoln County Court, upon a motion, and a writ of Mandamus, was on the day of June, 1894, served upon the defendant as judge of the Lincoln county court to order the election asked for by plaintiffs in their petition to said defendant, and that plaintiffs are entitled to the remedy sought by their motion; their motion is therefore sustained, and the writ of mandamus is awarded against W. E. Inasmuch as, by reason of the refusal of defendant to make said order at the regular term of said court when plaintiff's application was made, it is now too late to hold said election on the day designated in the plaintiff's petition, to-wit: On the 2nd day of June, 1894, and at the same time enable the sheriff to comply with the requirements of the law, that the said election should be advertised by the sheriff at least two weeks before the day of election, the defendant is commanded in his said order for said election to fix another and later day as reasonably near the day asked for by plaintiffs as will afford ample time for the advertisement thereof required by law. And this writ of mandamus herein in no wise counts to obey." In obedience to the command in said writ as above fully set out and it appearing that the money to pay the expenses that applicants are by law required to pay has been paid into court: It is ordered that an election be held in the city of Stanford, Ky., on the 7th day of July, 1894, between the hours of 7 A. E. Varmon, Judge of the Lincoln County, by which he is commanded at the next regular term of the Lincoln County Court to enter upon the order book of his court an order directing an election to be held in and for the city of Stanford and directing the Sheriff of Lincoln county to hold an election and open a poll therefor at each of the voting places in said city, for the purpose of taking the sense of the legal voters of said city upon the proposition whether or not spirituous, vinous or malt liquors shall be sold, bartered or loaned therein, the result of said election to be certified to and returned as required by law in the election of county officers.

To Bicyclists.—Entry blanks to the big bicycle races at the Stanford Fair, July 19 and 20, are now ready for distribution. Those contemplating entering in any of the races will please advise Assistant Secretary Joel T. Embry, who will gladly supply them with blanks and rules. The races will be run on a splendid half mile track.

The gullible farmers in the benighted county of Madison are being victimized by sharpers who claim to be State officers empowered to compel vaccination. They scratch the arms of all the family, touch it with a quill of harmless paste, instead of virus, and tax the unsuspecting 50 cents ahead. It will be a long time before it can be chronicled that all the fools are dead.

RUNAWAYS.—Mr. R. R. Gentry's Texas pony ran off with him while returning from Taylor's distillery the other afternoon, throwing him out of his buggy and badly bruising him about the body and face. Mr. J. T. O'Hair's horse became frightened at a train while passing Rowland the same afternoon and also ran away. Mr. O'Hair is badly hurt and will be laid up some time from it.

The reporter to the dailies from Richmond is somewhat of a liar himself. He tells of a cyclone that visited the Doyleville section in Madison that lifted fences from creek bottoms to hillsides and tore up large sycamore trees, landing many of them a great distance away, while hail stones as large as goose eggs fell, almost destroying the corn and other crops. Some of the icicles were so large and fell with such force that they cut through oak board roofs.

HEN-HOUSE robbers have been unusually energetic in the Willow Grove neighborhood of late and they have without molestation succeeded wonderfully well in making the feathers fly. A marksman hereabout, who with a rifle killed two sparrows at 55 and 80 yards, respectively, according to reputable Stanford witnesses, will happen in that neighborhood one of these nights and by moonlight at the first pop will diminish the number of thieves materially.

LANCASTER is inhabited by one of the biggest and warmest hearted people on the globe and it has always been a subject of deep regret to us that it should have been left high and dry, away off on a side track. They do not seem to worry especially, however, over the situation, but look on the bright side and live in hope if they die in despair. An example of this is given in a remark to us by Capt. Wm. Herndon: "We expect to strike oil in boring the artesian well and by the first of the year enter the ranks of the 4th class cities, leaving Stanford in the cold." Did ever before such hopeless hope spring eternal in the human breast?

FIRE.—The meat house, granery and coal house of R. H. Bronaugh at Crab Orchard was burned by an incendiary at 3 o'clock Saturday morning, who was evidently mad because he was thwarted in his desire for meat, Mrs. Bronaugh having had most of it removed since hearing of the many stealings. The houses were substantial buildings and there were about 100 bushels of coal in them. Mr. Bronaugh was confined to his bed with a sprained ankle, but seeing the light and supposing it was his residence, leaped out to fall helpless. His tenants and neighbors came to his assistance and did all in their power to save the property, and to them Mr. Bronaugh is very grateful. The raids of the midnight marauders are getting bolder and more numerous and the good citizens will have to band themselves together for protection. Mr. Bronaugh offers $100 reward for the incendiaries in another column.

LIBERAL premiums and good accommodations at the Stanford Fair, July 19 and 20.

The Crab Orchard opening hop will occur to night. Stanford will be liberally represented.

We want your trade. Anything and everything in the jewelry line can be found at Danks, the low-priced jeweler.

B. H. Danks, the jeweler, has on exhibition a gold and silver medal, designed and made by himself, which he will offer as a special prize to the bicyclers at the coming fair.

The weather has been a little less torrid for a few days and Sunday night a nice little rain fell here, which did not extend very far. Predictions for thunder storms were made for last night and for fair, slightly warmer weather to-day.

The opening hop at Linnietta was largely attended from here and other points, and Capt. Richards made everyone glad that he came. Nice refreshments were served and the dancing was protracted till a late hour.

AUNT HANNAH BALLENGER, a respected colored woman and a member of the large family of Givens', died Friday afternoon of rheumatism of the heart. She was a splendid cook and greatly sought after by house-keepers, who kept her busy making cake.

No man enjoys an occasional term as juror more than Dr. T. J. Bohon. He lives away back in the back part of the woods and being fond of mixing with the throng, he makes the most of his time swapping stories, we should say lies, with congenial spirits. Stanford people are always glad to see him.

One of the last and best acts of the court of appeals before adjourning was to affirm the sentences of Cope and Doonan, convicted after many efforts in Pulaski for killing an officer, who went to arrest them for disturbing a religious assembly, and they will have to serve the too short sentences given them.

THE Caledonian Literary Society was honored with a large audience at the court-house Saturday night and the orators, declaimers and others acquitted themselves handsomely. Both in his welcoming address and in his plea for intellect in the debate on the question, "Which has the Greatest Influence, Beauty or Intellect?" Jack Beazley proved himself equal to the occasion and won many compliments. The other speakers on his side were Logan Hughes and S. W. Menefee, while the side of beauty was upheld by Jim Beazley, W. S. Burch and W. H. Shanks, all of whom did well and showed the elevating and educating effect of membership in the society. The judges, Prof. J. M. Hubbard, Dr. L. B. Cook and W. H. Higgins, decided that the advocates of intellect had presented their side better and decided in their favor. The declamations of Ashby Warren and Will Hocker were excellently given and the music by Berney Fish and J. A. Mudd was a pleasing feature. Mr. Thomas M. Owsley, editor of the Cyclone, read his editorials and personals, which both enjoyed and amused. We commend to his careful and prayerful perusal, however, the latter part of 2 Kings 2, that he be warned of the fate of the sport-makers, if the esprit de corps of the profession can not deter him from firing the shafts of his wit against the beardless cheek of a younger editor. The entire program was greatly enjoyed and the society deserves congratulation. It will meet every two weeks at the same place.

A PLEASANT OCCASION.—Hon. W. H. Miller celebrated what he said was his 52d birthday Saturday, but as he gathered around his festal board men whose ages averaged 75 years, it is possible he was "boys together" with them when they trod the primrose path of dalliance three score years and more ago. He had invited 17 of the oldest of his friends in the county, but only nine responded, the others sending their regrets, naming various excuses, but we suspect they did not want to be caught in such an old crowd and have their ages given away. Mrs. Miller, with her accustomed capability in that line, had had prepared a sumptuous dinner of lamb, ham, chicken, vegetables, cake, ices, coffee, &c., and the table presented a tempting appearance as the old men ranged around it and began the onslaught, after Mr. J. R. Warren, the oldest, and who occupied the seat of honor, had asked the blessing. The good things were discussed with avidity, amid conversation which was as animated as if the participants were as young as they used to be. They seemed to enjoy the occasion thoroughly and left feeling even better towards old man Miller than the good will they had always entertained for him. The names and ages of the diners are: J. R. Warren, 90; Wm. M. Lackey, 78; R. B. Woods, 79; James Dudderar, 75; D. W. Vandever, 75; G. W. Bronaugh, 73; Wm. Burton, 72; John S. Bosley, 71, and Col. T. P. Hill, variously estimated at 65 to 83. Giving him the benefit of the doubt, however, and placing his age at 65, the years of the nine aggregate 678, an average of 75. All except two are democrats and all took "sugar in their" but four. The other gentlemen invited were George H. McKinney, John Buchanan, J. M. Reid, J. A. Harris, Sam Dudderar, Sam Reid and J. M. Hall.

WE have it from good authority that Mrs. Eugenia Dunlap Potts, will get her galaxy of beauty for the July number of her Illustrated Kentuckian from that home of beautiful women, Hustonville. Now is the time to subscribe.

CIRCUIT COURT.—The damage suit of Gillispie vs. Bastin & Collier, for cutting timber from his land, on trial when our last report closed, resulted in a verdict for $500. A similar suit with Tim Rout as plaintiff and Tim Hardin as defendant, was called and the jury sworn, but discharged till this morning. The jury hung in the case of Henry Turner vs. Anderson Carr for wages, which the defendant claimed had been paid. The court was not in session Saturday.

At a school entertainment Rice Royalty struck little Cosby Green and his mother sued him for $500 damages. The case was tried yesterday with Hill & McRoberts for the boy and R. C. Warren for the defendant, and the result was a verdict for one cent.

ARE EVIDENCE That the blood is wrong, and that nature is endeavoring to throw off the impurities.

Nothing is so beneficial in assisting nature as Swift's Specific (S. S. S.).

It is a simple vegetable compound. It is harmless to the most delicate child, yet it forces the poison to the surface and eliminates it from the blood.

I contracted a severe case of blood poison that unfitted me for business for years. A few bottles of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) cured

A STORY.

As It Is Sometimes Told by Members of the Four Hundred.

At one of Miss Pinkerly's evenings.

Young Tutter—And that reminds me of a story I heard the other day.

Miss Pinkerly—Oh, how perfectly charming! I always love to hear your stories, Mr. Tutter.

Tutter—This was about a bride and groom—

Miss Pinkerly—Won't you move your chair away from the door? I can hear you so much better. Every one is talking so.

Tutter—Certainly. Well, they were on their—

Miss Pinkerly—Here comes Miss

Summit. Oh, Maud, I am so delighted to see you! I was so afraid you weren't coming. You know Mr. Tutter, I believe. He was just entertaining me with one of his most delightful stories.

Pray go on, Mr. Tutter.

Tutter—Well, as I was saying—

Miss Pinkerly—I wonder if she knows Mr. Panhandle. No, I know

she doesn't. I must introduce them.

(Goes and returns.) Really, you must garden me, Mr. Tutter. Pray go on, please.

Tutter (gritting his teeth)—Oh, certainly. Well, they were on their honeymoon, and they came to—

Miss Pinkerly—Did you hear that,

Mr. Tutter? That girl in the other room says that Charlie Singler is engaged. Well, I never thought he would be, and to Daisy Yellowgold too!

Tutter (politely)—Yes. It is rather funny that he is. I heard of it yesterday.

Miss Pinkerly (reproachfully)—And you never told me. I am surprised at you.

Tutter—To tell the truth I never thought of it.

Miss Pinkerly (still listening)—I'll forgive you this time. But your story.

You mustn't forget that.

Tutter—Oh, no. Let's see. Oh, yes.

They came to a tunnel, and when the train got through it—

Girl in the Other Room—They say

she has had her trousseau ready for six months. Just fancy!

Tutter—The groom turned to the bride and said, "If I had known that was such a long tunnel!"

Girl in the Other Room—Do you know what he said? He said he could have had any of us for the asking.

Wasn't that nasty of him?

Tutter—"I would have kissed you."

And she said—

Miss Pinkerly (in an undertone)—

Well, I never. Go on, Mr. Tutter.

Tutter—And then she said, "Why didn't you kiss me, dear?" (A slight pause.)

Miss Pinkerly—Oh—yes. How awfully funny! And where did you say they were?—Truth.

"Her Eyes Fell."

—Life.

Fortunate.

"I shall not have the nerve to appear in public with you again," protested the maternal goat, "since those cruel boys cut off your whiskers."

The head of the family pondered in silence for several minutes.

"Dearest," he observed finally, "I have been thinking of the situation much and have concluded that in view of the unquestioned decadence of Popu-laristic ascendancy this seeming affliction is a blessing in disguise."

for food in three days.—Detroit Trib-

Apparently All Hump.

The cyclist with an ambition to be mistaken for a racing man rode up to a wayside watering trough, steadied himself by putting one foot on it and called out to the farmer on the other side of the fence.

"Can you tell me how far it is to the next town?" he asked.

"I can't tell which way you're travelin," replied the farmer, "unless you raise your head so's I can see where it's fastened on. I'm a little nearsighted."

—Chicago Tribune.

Accompanied by Squalls.

"This," groaned the wretched young father, shifting the wide awake baby to the other arm and making the turn at the four hundred and fifty-seventh time,

"is one of the hardships that pass in the night!"—Exchange.

A Plea.

O funny men, does wit consist in lines set up like this?

Of stale old jokes on servant girls

Too fair for household bliss?

On honeymoons that quickly wane,

Or ice that mounts too high

On mercuries that follow it?

Shoppers who do not buy?

On fond papas awake at night

By hungry cherubs' shrieks?

On girls who tear each other's fame

And paint their fading cheeks,

Or say to men unheard of things?

To show that they are bright?

On wives who run up endless bills,

Or husbands out at night?

On western girls' crass ignorance?

Hub girls whose lore o'erflows?

On Irishmen with lip too long,

And Jews drawn chiefly nose?

On tramps with tattered nether clothes

And most disheveled hair?

On—worse of all—the legal ma

And son-in-law's despair?

O solemn, you long ago

Found novelty a hoax.

Send down to earth, for public weal,

A man with brand new jokes!
